Equestrian legend Mark Todd (55) is considered one of the most celebrated New Zealand sports men. He was voted rider of the 20th century by the FEI. In 2000 He retired from the sport after winning bronze at the Sydney Olympics and made a return in 2008 aged 52 after the purchase of the New Zealand sport horse Gandolph. 'Toddy' first competed internationally as a member of the first ever NZ team that contested the World Championships at Lexington in 1978. Soon after he moved to England to pursue eventing and his first visit to Badminton 31 years ago (1980) proved successful winning with Southern Comfort and a young Andrew Nicholson as his groom. He since won on two more occasions and has won Burghley five times. He is credited with pioneering eventing in New Zealand and paved the way for New Zealanders to come over to England to compete.

He is particularly remembered for his partnership with the diminutive Charisma with who he won two Olympic gold medals. In the 1992 Olympic Games Mark competed in show jumping as well as eventing. During retirement in New Zealand he turned to training and breeding racehorses – he describes himself as a horse breeder – and successes include Bramble Rose who won the 2003 New Zealand Oaks and Willy Smith the winner of the Wellington Cup in 2007.

After his return he was selected for the 2008 Olympic Games his sixth Olympic appearance as a competitor – in 2004 he was team trainer for the New Zealand team. Last year with Grass Valley he was a member of the NZ bronze medal team at the WEG in Lexington.

In 1986 Mark married competitor Carolyn Berry and the couple has two children Lauren (22) and James (18). Outside of horses Mark enjoys racing, skiing and boating.

The Irish bred NZB Grass Valley is by the Thoroughbred Legal Pressure out of a mare by the Clover Hill son Connaught Gold. He is owned by New Zealand Bloodstock (NZB) the leading bloodstock company in NZ – and was previously ridden by Eric Smiley and American Julian Stiller from who he was acquired at the end of 2008.

NZB Land Vision is by the British based Danish Warmblood Broadstone Landmark (by Lancier). He was a former intermediate champion ridden by Oli Townend.
